NCCJ of the Piedmont Triad is a human relations organization that promotes understanding and respect among all cultures, races and religions through advocacy, education and dialogue. Every year, NCCJ presents the Citation Award to an outstanding citizen who is fighting bias, bigotry and racism and working to make the Piedmont Triad a better place for all of us.

NCCJ is changing lives across the Piedmont Triad through programs such as ANYTOWN™, its acclaimed, weeklong community-building and leadership institute for high-school students, its interfaith tour and numerous other programs for students and adults.

The Citation Award Dinner exposes and promotes NCCJ's ideals to the wider Piedmont Triad community and honors local citizens who embody NCCJ's values and objectives. As NCCJ's major annual fundraising initiative, this event enables the organization not only to continue its work, but also to expand its reach to a broader segment of our community.

NCCJ PROGRAMS: An Overview

Founded in 1927 as the “National Conference of Christians and Jews,” NCCJ changed its name to the “National Conference for Community and Justice” in 1999 to reflect the organization’s current work. After changing lives in Guilford County and the surrounding community for 70 years, NCCJ of the Piedmont Triad was incorporated as an independent organization in 2005. During the fiscal year ending August 31, 2010, NCCJ worked directly with more than 4,700 people – including elementary, middle and high school students, as well as college students and adults. NCCJ’s programs comprise three broad categories:

- ANYTOWN ANYTIME: This holistic series aims to develop Guilford County students and educators into champions of respect and inclusion. Our youth programs build on the powerful and proven concepts and practices of the ANYTOWN model.
  - ANYTOWN™: NCCJ’s nationally acclaimed, weeklong human-relations institute brings together high school juniors and seniors to:
    - Create bonds of friendship and respect across different races, religions and socio-economic groups
    - Raise awareness and understanding of social justice issues facing our society today
    - Prepare these youth leaders to return to their schools and communities as champions for inclusion and respect
  - ANYDAY: ANYDAY programs are single-day experiential, student-centered activities that guide participants in developing a new awareness of themselves and their role in inter-group relations. Activities include diverse groups of students and staff in Guilford County elementary, middle and high schools. NCCJ also offers overnight retreats (ANYNIGHT) for specific schools.
  - After-ANYTOWN Ambassador Program: Building on their powerful ANYTOWN experiences, students keep the ANYTOWN spirit alive year-round while they learn skills and strategies needed to effect change in their schools. Participants in the ambassador program also help facilitate ANYDAY programs.

- Youth Leadership Conference: This annual gathering convenes hundreds of high school students from Guilford County public and independent schools. The students focus on building relationships as they create a common vision of the power of unity and inclusion.
  - Leaders for Tomorrow: ANYTOWN youth leaders work with middle school students to develop their leadership skills in community-based summer workshops.
  - Interfaith Tours: Each year, hundreds of youth and adults in Guilford County visit diverse houses of worship to experience a variety of faith traditions. Participants develop a stronger appreciation and respect for different belief systems.
- Community-based Programs
    - Brotherhood / Sisterhood Citation Award Dinner: NCCJ's annual dinner celebrates brotherhood and sisterhood in our community and recognizes outstanding Piedmont Triad citizens – like Dennis Quaintance in 2011 – who live NCCJ's vision and strive to improve the quality of life for everyone in our community.
    - Interfaith Study Mission to Israel: Co-sponsored with Greensboro Jewish Federation and the Community and Foundation of Greater Greensboro, the mission builds of understanding by bringing together an interfaith group of Triad residents who travel through the land where three major faiths (Judaism, Christianity and Islam) originated. Participants return to the Triad prepared to assume larger leadership roles that transcend religious boundaries. The sixth Interfaith Study Mission will be held March 18-28, 2012.
- Adult Programs
    - The Imperatives of Diversity: As technology shrinks our work, interpersonal relations across global boundaries expand rapidly. Participants explore emerging challenges and opportunities that face organizations in modern society.
    - What Do You See From Where You Stand? Participants gain the opportunity to look at themselves and others through a new lens with the focus of improving human relations.
    - Flash Judgments: Our worldview is the lens through which we see life. The lens also colors our first impressions of others. Participants explore how our first impressions, or flash judgments, create inclusion and division in our lives.
    - Adults as Allies for Change: Our youth are the future, and an investment in them is an investment in our community's future. Participants explore how we can leverage our experience to empower youth.
