Operation Understanding 2010

Each year, the National Conference for Community & Justice of the Piedmont Triad (NCCJ) hosts Operation Understanding, a Youth Interfaith Tour bringing together hundreds of young people to promote inclusion and respect. Through Operation Understanding, youth develop appreciation and respect for different belief systems, building bridges of understanding among diverse faith groups.

The tour provides an opportunity for Triad youth to visit houses of worship they might not otherwise experience. Open to individuals and groups, this popular program helps young people develop a strong appreciation and respect for different belief systems.

The tour will take place on Sunday, February 21 from 2:00 pm to 5:30 pm. Due to inclement weather, the High Point Youth Interfaith Tour, originally planned for January 31 will be rescheduled. NCCJ invites everyone who registered for the High Point tour to attend the Greensboro event.

The Youth Interfaith Tour will visit The Islamic Center of Greensboro, All Nations Evangelical Church, Temple Emanuel and Westminster Presbyterian Church. This event will showcase the rich diversity of faith traditions in the Triad. The tour is free and open to the public. Advanced registration is required. For more information about the tour or NCCJ's other programs, visit www.nccjtriad.org.

If you would like to register your group to attend and experience the rich diversity of faith groups in our community, please contact Brandi Johnson at bjohnson@nccjtriad.org or 336-272-0359.
