From the NCCJ Board of Directors

Don't think for one second that the work of NCCJ is done. Fighting bias, bigotry and racism in our community is still as important as ever. NCCJ polled fifty young leaders from Guilford County schools and asked, "Do you agree or disagree- there are students at my school who are made to feel as if they don't belong?" Every student agreed.

How do we change this? Through the work of NCCJ- building inclusive and respectful communities- we can make a change. NCCJ provides programs that promote understanding and respect across all groups. Our programs include ANYTOWN, a week-long summer camp program that inspires young leaders and empowers them to be agents of change in their schools and communities; day programs in Guilford County middle and high schools; the No Hate in Our Town Campaign and community events, such as the Youth Interfaith Tour.

You can take a stand against bias, bigotry and racism by making a gift to support the work of NCCJ. Your gift will ensure that our young leaders respect all people-regardless of race, culture, sexual

NCCJ is Accepting Nominations for the 2010 Brotherhood/Sisterhood Citation Award

For five decades, the National Conference for Community and Justice of the Piedmont Triad (NCCJ) has honored outstanding citizens who have improved our community with the Brotherhood/Sisterhood Citation Award.

2009 Award Winners- Rabbi Fred Guttman and Rev. Mark Sills

To identify deserving candidates, NCCJ welcomes nominations. The 2010 award will be presented at the annual Brotherhood/Sisterhood Citation Award Dinner on Wednesday, November 17, 2010, at the Koury Convention Center in Greensboro, North Carolina.

To nominate a community leader, please complete the nomination form, sign it, and mail it to: Citation Award Selection Committee Chair, NCCJ, 713 N. Greene Street, Greensboro, NC 27401. You may also fax this form to 336-272-1814 or e-mail it to aosborne@nccjtriad.org. All nominations must be received by May 1, 2010. Incomplete nomination forms will not be considered.

Partner Spotlight

International Civil Rights Center and Museum is our spotlight partner for April 2010. The Museum celebrates the nonviolent protests of the 1960 Greensboro sit-ins, which served as a catalyst in the civil rights movement. The Museum enjoyed the national spotlight on February 1, 2010, when the museum opened in celebration of the 50th Anniversary of the sit-ins.

NCCJ has joined the 1960 Society in support of the International Civil Rights Museum and is partnering with the facility for a number of upcoming programs. Recently, the American Hebrew Academy and Greensboro Day School faculty attended ICRCM as part of their day of NCCJ programming and Susan Feit, Executive Director of NCCJ, participated in a women's intergenerational panel discussion, hosted by ICRCM.

The NCCJ Board of Directors held their March meeting at the Museum and followed the meeting with a tour. Executive Director of the Museum, Amelia Parker serves NCCJ as a member of the Board of Directors.
