The National Conference for Community and Justice of the Piedmont Triad (NCCJ) is a human relations organization that promotes understanding, and respect among all cultures, races, and religions through advocacy, education, and dialogue.

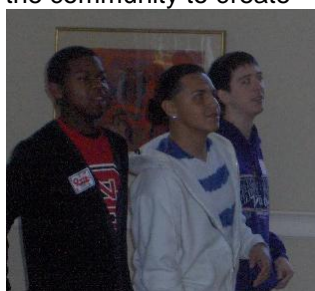

NCCJ of the Piedmont Triad is a non-profit, 501 (c)(3) organization

Each year in celebration of the legacy of Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, the Greensboro Human Relations Commission hosts its Memorial Breakfast. NCCJ supports this annual event by providing more than a dozen Youth Ambassadors to serve as ushers.

The breakfast featured Rev. Dr. Charles E. Goodman Jr., senior pastor/teacher of the Historic Tabernacle Baptist Church in Augusta, GA. Dr. Goodman challenged the audience to think about how they can build on the dream that Dr. King articulated more than 60 years ago.

On Tuesday, the 19th, a second day off for many Guilford County students, another group of Youth Ambassadors gathered for a day of leadership training and service. More than 30 ANYTOWN alums attended the Youth Ambassador Leadership Training. This group is prepared to facilitate youth events at their schools and in the community to create positive change.

It's Time to Register for the Youth Interfaith Tours

NCCJ proudly hosts Operation Understanding, Youth Interfaith Tours bringing together hundreds of young people to promote inclusion and respect. The tours provide an opportunity for Guilford County's youth to visit houses of worship they might not otherwise experience. Open to individuals and groups, this popular program helps young people develop a strong appreciation and respect for different belief systems.

The High Point Tour is hosted in partnership with the City of High Point's Human Relations Department and the Interfaith Youth Minister's Network.
